

Say something nice review

A review by Amelia Thistlewood

I really like the poem say something nice because in the current situation we need everyone to be going a little bit further than they usually do with being nice and whenever possible adding in a compliment. It also reminds me of the feeling I get when someone gives me a compliment and I love it. Also, I recommend this to people for when they are not feeling happy, I think they should go off and read say something nice and they will feel happy again.

Be more like a cat review

I love this poem because everything except the black and white bit explains my two cats perfectly and if you follow what they say to do in the poem then you will have a much happier, stranger more exiting life and you would have seen the world in another way which is also good. And it puts a smile on the readers face.
